At the conclusion of this training, participants will be better able to:

- Identify the best practical guide for assessment, treatment planning, and documentation to enhance client progression;
- Develop a Batterer Intervention Program (BIP) that makes victim safety its first priority, establishes accountability for batterers and promotes a coordinated community response to domestic violence;
- Determine innovative methods to develop, sustain, and promote best practices in Batterer Intervention Treatment;
- Address cultural barriers that exist in providing services to batterers;
- Effectively deal with the resistant client;
- Recognize the characteristics of men who batter; and
- Explore effective approaches for working with the batterer as a parent.

About the Presenter, Lundy Bancroft

Lundy Bancroft has twenty years of experience specializing in interventions for abusive men and their families. He has authored four books in the field, including Why Does He Do That? (the nation's bestselling book on domestic violence), the recently published Should I Stay or Should I Go, and the national prizewinner The Batterer as Parent.

Lundy is a former Co-Director of Emerge, the nation's first counseling program for men who batter, and was involved in over 2000 cases as counselor and clinical supervisor. Lundy appears across the United States as a presenter for judges and other court personnel, child protective workers, therapists, law enforcement officials, and other audiences. He is the creator of the "Co-Counseling Alliance" approach to emotional healing. His blog is called "Healing and Hope."
