About the Presenters

Kelly Hall is an Assistant Deputy Attorney General in the Violence Against Women Section (VAWA) in the South Carolina Office of Attorney General Alan Wilson. Mrs. Hall prosecutes domestic violence, stalking, and harassment cases across the state against women and men, as well as criminal sexual conduct and other sexual assault crimes. In her three years with the office she has prosecuted numerous domestic violence cases as well as several sexual assault cases. Some of her sexual assault cases include former civilly adjudicated sexually violent predators who re-offend. In addition to her prosecutorial duties, Mrs. Hall also assists in conducting trainings for law enforcement and the judiciary and promotes education concerning domestic violence and sexual assault.

Maja Hasic has served as the Anti-Human Trafficking Program Coordinator with Tapestri Inc., a non-profit social service agency that works with survivors of violence from the immigrant and refugee community since March 2008. She provided direct services to survivors of human trafficking until October 2011 when she became the Anti-Human Trafficking Program Director. Ms. Hasic designs and provides trainings and outreach to mainstream service providers, law enforcement, and community organizations on human trafficking on a local, state-wide, and national basis.
