Dear Friends,

The last year offered us all an opportunity to reflect on which pieces of life should be centered, which should be placed on the edge to provide a strong frame, and those which may not serve us well as we build our own individual puzzle.

Our work at SCCADVASA went through a similar process. With the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic, we saw rates of intimate partner violence increase as the ability for victims to seek help was restricted. Due to stay-at-home orders and related health concerns, traditional ways of helping had to be reimagined. We had to implement new processes to respond to the individual needs of survivors who were also learning to navigate safety in the middle of a community-wide crisis. Above all, despite the many obstacles and challenges, advocates across South Carolina were able to find new, innovative ways of putting all the pieces together.

Even in times of rapid change, critical truths remain. The epidemic of violence that creates cascading impacts of harm in our communities is not inevitable. And in truth, all of us hold a piece of the puzzle in building an effective framework of prevention. Now is the time to reflect upon, and determine, which piece you hold.

What unique skills or talents can you bring to address these complex issues? What is your part in helping to attain our vision of a South Carolina free from domestic and sexual violence?

As a sponsor of SCCADVASA's Peace by Piece campaign, you are a critical piece in our work to build safer homes and communities. We hope you will join us on the path recognizing the importance of developing a sustained movement for change. We ask that you examine your piece of the puzzle and seek out additional roles that you can play. Whether you're interested in public policy, advocacy, or community education, there is a place for you at the table. Our team of community volunteers, professional staff, and member programs are always here to support your efforts. Thank you for your commitment to finding your piece, solving the puzzle, and building the reality of safer communities for all South Carolinians.

FAQ

What is SCCADVASA?

The South Carolina Coalition Against Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault is a nonprofit organization dedicated to addressing the root causes of violence. We advocate for public policy that will support survivors and prevent violence, provide technical assistance to professionals in the field, and offer training for the community.

What is this campaign?

Our goal is twofold:

- For people to take action addressing domestic and sexual violence in South Carolina
- To raise funds that will support SCCADVASA's work to end violence

Where does the money go?

The money stays here in South Carolina! Funds will support efforts to train victim service providers, to educate communities about violence prevention, and to support survivors.

Why should I be part of this effort?

It's going to take all of us to end violence. Each of us can make a unique contribution reflective of our skills and gifts that will help us get a step closer to peace in South Carolina. We can't do it without you!

What is expected of me if I sponsor this event?

It's up to you! We hope you will shout your sponsorship from the rooftops and invite others to join you in supporting these life-saving services.

Can my children help?

Absolutely! We want to build a better world for all of our children and they can help direct our path. We can provide you with age appropriate talking points and activities so that your children can help build their violence-free future.

Will this really make a difference?

If a puzzle is missing one piece, the picture is incomplete. Your voice and ideas matter in seeing the full picture of how domestic violence and sexual assault impact our community. You are a critical part of the solution!
